

Marco Prestini

Marco Prestini is a director, born and raised in Italy. He graduated from High School in Vancouver and went to college back home in Italy, completing a Business degree in Milan. In 2010, driven by his strong attraction to fashion and underground culture, he founded an art collective aimed at creating visual content under the moniker “Flash Factory”.

In 2013, Marco moved to LA to start the Film program at ArtCenter College of Design, where he graduated in 2016, distinguishing himself through his powerful electric and poetic visuals. In 2021, Prestini was nominated for a GRAMMY for Best Music Video for Tierra Whack’s “Mumbo Jumbo”.
