

Markus Walter

Markus Walter is a multi-awarded director based in Berlin. Coming from a music and editorial background he started directing music videos in Germany and the UK before switching to advertising. His work has been described as cinematic and cultural mythos infused with a macabre sense of humor.

He's the mastermind behind spots for the likes of Mercedes, Clash of Kings, Subaru, Audi, and VW. Spots for these brands alongside work for EA Sports, IKEA, Coca-Cola, and McDonald's to name a few, have earned him attention from Cannes, ADC, the New York Film Festival, LIAA, and others.

Markus' ability to work well with people, his talent of telling a complex story in its shortest form, and his constant goal to get the maximum out of every job make him not only a successful modern director, but also one with whom clients and agencies like to work. Professional in temperament, innovative and creative, responsible, adaptable and cooperative, Markus sets high standards for himself and his work.
